Programme Overview

Are you interested in finding out how Singapore is developing its own agriculture industry to ensure food security and how Hokkaido produces its delicious agricultural products despite its long and frigid winter?

Jointly offered by Faculty of Agriculture, Hokkaido University (HU) and Faculty of Science, National University of Singapore (NUS), SP2201 Agri-science in Japan and Singapore is a programme which aims to provide students with a practical and in-depth knowledge of the various challenges both Japan and Singapore faces in agriculture.

The programme gives you a chance to broaden your knowledge on the agriculture industry in Japan and Singapore. It is also a good gateway to understand another country's culture and make new friends.

Location

The programme takes place in Hokkaido, Japan, at Hokkaido University (Sapporo Campus) and in Singapore at NUS, Faculty of Science.

Dates

The programme will take place in Sapporo from 4-10 Aug 2019 and in Singapore from 9-14 Dec 2019.

Academic Information

The programme is co-taught by lecturers from the NUS Faculty of Science and professors from the Faculty of Agriculture, Hokkaido University. Lectures, practical lessons, field trips and collaborative group work are all part of the programme.
